Dwight Davis

Panelist Bios

Dwight E. Davis is a community activist, motivational speaker, and a successful businessman in life after basketball. Davis joined the NBRPA Board of Directors in 2014 and serves as Vice Chair.

Davis starred at the University of Houston from 1969-1972 and was inducted into UH's Hall of Honor in 2006. He still holds many records for his rebounding, blocked shots, and scoring at UH. Davis also has a BS degree from Houston and is a member of the Bauer Business School Circle of Honor.

After his college career, Davis was selected as the third overall pick of 1972 NBA Draft by the Cleveland Cavaliers. The 6-8 forward averaged 8.6 points and 5.9 rebounds in 340 career regular-season games, and was voted to the NBA All-Rookie Team.

In 2007, Davis was appointed by New Hampshire Governor John Lynch to the N.H. Workforce Youth Council, and in 2008 he became the chair. He has served as a board member of the Greater Seacoast United Way, as the Community Chair, and a member of the United Way Mass Bay Board. Dwight has been a member of the NH Workforce Investment Board since 2009. He has since been reappointed to both positions by Governor Maggie Hassan.

Dwight spends much of his free time working with at-risk teens with lessons on and off the court. He is a member of the Seacoast Board of Realtors and has been among the Seacoast Top Producers since 2007. In 2009, Dwight received the National Workforce Leadership award from Jobs for America's Graduates for his extensive work with the youth of New Hampshire and leadership of the New Hampshire Workforce Youth Council.

Davis was recognized in 2013 by Rotary International by being awarded the Paul Harris Fellowship. This is bestowed upon the Rotarians and members of the community that exhibit a better understanding and friendly relations for peoples around the world; past recipients of this award include Mother Theresa and Nelson Mandela

Davis was part of the NBA, NBPA, and NBRPA's inaugural of My Brother's Keeper in Washington, D.C. with President Obama.

Davis lives in New Hampshire with his wife Gayle Davis. Together, they are co-owners of Senior Helpers of the Greater Seacoast.

Anthony Bounphkahom (Dance performer at No To Patterns: The Live Experience event!)

Anthony Bounphkahom is known for healing artistry, the love he expresses through his craft and founder/owner of The Block Collaborative. He started dancing at age 13 and since then has been training with various teams, workshops, conventions, and mentors. Anthony's passion is teaching people to "push love." Teaching dance is something Anthony loves to do, but his passion is helping others feel the love for themselves through art.

Stacy Woodley

Stacy Woodley has served 13+ years in the Civil Service for the Department of the Navy as an Engineer / Programmer for SSBN and SSGN Submarines. She is stationed at Portsmouth Naval Shipyard and is employed by the Submarine Maintenance, Engineering Planning and Procurement organization. Stacy is also a professional bodybuilder, certified personal trainer, and Owner/Operator of F8tail Fitness LLC, where she believes once you change your mindset, the body will follow.

Throughout most of her civil career, she was the only Black person or woman in her department or organization. She acknowledged that early on and decided to be proactive in bringing diversity, inclusion, and self identity by volunteering within her community. Over the years, Stacy has shared her time with middle and high schools, as well as colleges in the Seacoast region, participating in science, technology, engineering, arts, and math (STEAM) related activities, helping to propel future generations forward.
